domain is .com or .edu, but it is clearly the work of students without authority. The author is probably a student. Spelling and/or other errors indicate the	The domain is .com and there are a lot of pop up menus and items for sale, or the domain is .org and the organization behind the site is unrecognized. The author is unnamed and/or no credentials	organization, museum, or university. The author is named but credentials and	Any of these: .JET (BBC) / PAC errors indicate the author is not an expert.	and/or no credentials are given.	credentials and contact information are incomplete.

Use this rubric to determine if an Internet site is suitable for research.